Goodmans' Infrastructure Renewal and Procurement Group team brings in-depth expertise and our signature client-centered approach to public-sector procurement, infrastructure renewal, public/private partnerships, urban revitalizations and alternative finance projects of every kind.

Industry Experience

Goodmans has an extensive practice in public sector procurement, infrastructure renewal, public/private partnerships, urban revitalizations and alternative finance projects. With many well-publicized successful deals to its credit, Goodmans is considered among the best in Canada in this area.

Our group has built an outstanding reputation for providing hands-on solutions to consortia, constructors, subcontractors, governments and lenders. Members of the group possess multi-disciplinary expertise in procurement, real estate, commercial, construction, IT, cleantech, renewable energy and finance law and are uniquely able to provide comprehensive, cost-effective advice.

Members of our Infrastructure Renewal and Procurement Group have received industry recognition in publications such as IFLR 1000, The Best Lawyers in Canada, Who's Who International, Canadian Legal Expert Directory and Expert/American Lawyer Media Guide, Expert's Special Edition on Canada's Leading Infrastructure Lawyers in the Globe and Mail's Report on Business Magazine and Chambers.

Valuable Advice at Each Stage of the Process

Goodmans' depth of experience and expertise enables us to provide assistance to clients throughout the process, including:

- analyzing approaches to public-private projects
- co-ordinating legal advice to teamed organizations
- structuring and drafting complex agreements
- advising on insurance, risk management and environmental issues
- assisting with ongoing issues after complex projects are completed

Goodmans has been involved in a range of projects, including gaming and lottery modernization, transit, healthcare facilities, urban and waterfront revitalization and renewable energy power generation projects.

Creative Business Insight and Solutions

Goodmans has coordinated the work of a diverse team of project participants and advisory consultants teaming extensively with government entities, multiple stakeholders, private sector participants and expert consultants on a wide variety of projects. We are adept at managing and synthesizing the often diverse perspectives and objectives of project participants. Our experience allows us to handle complex and multi-faceted projects without expensive learning time and associated delays. We have, over the years, gained valuable insight into the operations, sensitivities and decision-making processes of governments, government agencies and other stakeholders – insights that inform our legal work and the solutions we provide.
